Subject: What should I do?

Dear Pets World,
I visited your website today. I really like it! It has information about many different kinds of animals. I want to ask you a question about one of my pet goldfish. I have four of them, but one of them has not eaten since Saturday. This morning, I found six white spots* on its body. The white spots look like the ones in the picture of the sick goldfish on your website.
What should I do?
Thank you,
George Billings

Dear George,
Thank you for your e-mail. I'm sorry to hear that your fish is not well. From your e-mail, I think your fish has an illness* called ich. You can buy medicine for it at a pet shop. If you don't give medicine to the fish, your other fish will get sick, too. It usually takes about five days for the fish to get better. If the fish doesn't get better in one week, you will need to get stronger medicine. Please let me know how your fish is.
Good luck,
Barbara Johnson, Pets World

Dear Ms. Johnson,

Thank you for answering my e-mail. There is a pet shop near my house. I bought my fish there one year ago. After I read the e-mail you sent me, I went there. The man in the store gave me some medicine for my fish. You were right! It took only one week for my fish to get better. Now my fish is swimming and eating well. The other fish didn't get sick. I'm looking forward to reading more about fish on your website.

Thank you,
George Billings

Sylvia Earle

People have explored* many places around the world, but there are still places under the sea that people have not visited. Sylvia Earle is an explorer who loves the sea. She has worked hard to learn more about the plants and animals in it.

Earle was born in 1935. She grew up in New Jersey and Florida. When she was a little girl, she lived on a farm and loved playing outside. Her parents did not have much money, but Earle was able to go to university because she won scholarships.* At university, she learned to scuba-dive.* She thought she could learn a lot about plants and animals under the sea by scuba-diving.

After Earle became a scientist, she spent many hours under the water. This way, she was able to learn more than other scientists. During the 1960s, she got married and had two children, but she did not stop working.

In 1970, Earle took part in an interesting project. She lived in a special building under the sea with four other scientists for two weeks. After that, Earle became well known. She met the president of the United States and traveled to many countries. Later, she spent two years studying whales. In 1979, she went down almost 400 meters under the water and walked on the bottom* of the sea. That was deeper than any other person.

In the 1980s, Earle began to make machines to explore the bottom of the sea. Now, she works to protect the sea and the plants and animals in it.
