A Beautiful Book

When Paul was a boy, his grandmother gave him a book of children's stories. It was an old, beautiful book. In fact, it was given to Paul's grandmother when she was a child. He loved listening to her read from the book and hearing all the different voices she used for the characters in the stories. The book became very (34) to Paul.

When Paul was older, he showed the book to a friend who was a book collector. She told him that it was worth a lot of money. After that, Paul thought about selling the book. But in the end, he decided to (35) it. His grandmother had died a few years before, and the book helped him to remember the happy times they had had together. Also, Paul hoped to have children someday, and he wanted to read stories from the book to them.

Rock School

Many teenagers dream about performing in a rock band. When Sandra Rizkallah and her husband Tom Pugh heard their own teenage children talking about starting a band, they had an unusual (36). They decided to start a program at their home in Massachusetts for young people who want to play in a rock band. The program is called “Plugged In.” Students in the program practice singing and playing musical instruments, but they also learn how they can help other people through their music.

The students are first divided into groups of about five. Each group thinks of a band name and chooses songs to practice. The students are also asked what charities they are interested in. They then decide on which charity to (37). At the end of the program, the students perform in a concert. Tickets are sold, and the money made at the concert is given to the charity that they chose. In 2006, students raised enough money to send a student from Zimbabwe to college for four years.

Plugged In began in 2001 with just five students. It has grown since then, and now about 100 students take part each time. Rizkallah and Pugh say that there are several reasons why Plugged In is so (38). Some teenagers go to Plugged In either because they have no one to play with or because they have no place to rehearse. Others join because they want to become rich and famous. But Rizkallah and Pugh hope that the program will also show them how to use their talent to help others.

From: Gregory Allen <gregoryallen@pluto-moon.com>
 To: Hugh Daley <h-daley@stepworldhome.com>
 Date: June 10, 2012
 Subject: Carlton Ranger

Dear Uncle Hugh,

Thank you for taking me to the baseball game last Saturday. I really enjoyed it, even though the Orange Hawks lost. Do you remember when Sean Bailey hit a home run? Well, Dad was watching the game on TV, and he saw me catch the ball. That's the first time I've been on TV!

I have some exciting news. Since I passed my driving test in April, I've been looking for a cheap used car. I finally found one in the newspaper on Wednesday—a 1997 Carlton Ranger. It only cost $1,800. The woman who sold it to me said that it needs a few repairs. One of the windows does not close properly, and the air conditioner sometimes makes a strange noise. Apart from that, I think it is in pretty good condition.

Mom said that you and Aunt Penelope are coming to our house for lunch next Sunday. You know a lot about cars, so I'd like to get your opinion about the Carlton Ranger. Also, could you help me fix the window in the afternoon? Dad doesn't have many tools, so it would be great if you could bring some of yours. Maybe I could take you out for a drive afterwards.

Love,
 Gregory

Easter at the White House

Every spring, people in many countries celebrate the Christian holiday of Easter. In the United States, many families go to church at Easter. Many American parents also organize an Easter-egg hunt. In this game, parents and children decorate eggs. Then the parents hide the eggs for the children to find later. Another tradition is Easter-egg rolling. This is a race in which children push eggs through grass using a spoon with a long handle. The most famous Easter-egg roll is held at the White House—the home of the American president.

The tradition of the White House Easter Egg Roll began in 1878. Before that, children gathered every Easter to roll eggs in a park in another part of Washington, D.C. But some people were unhappy because the children damaged the grass. From 1876, the police stopped children from playing the game in this park. When President Rutherford B. Hayes heard that children could not roll eggs there, he felt sorry for them. He invited them to an Easter-egg roll at the White House.

The event grew larger over the years, and 53,000 people came in 1941. Nowadays, however, the number of guests is usually under 30,000. Presidents have often made changes to the event to try to improve it. In recent years, they have started inviting famous young singers to perform. In 2010, President Barack Obama asked Justin Bieber to appear. President Obama's staff also introduced an online system that allows children from all over the United States to apply for tickets on the Internet.

The White House Easter Egg Roll is expensive to organize, and some people say that it is a waste to spend so much money. However, some of the money is provided by companies, and the entertainers perform for free. It is also a rare chance for American children to come to the White House and meet the leader of their country.

(42) What is one thing many children in the United States do at Easter?

- 1 They hunt in the grass for spoons.
- 2 They decorate eggs with their parents.
- 3 They cook various dishes made with eggs.
- 4 They watch a speech by the president on TV.

(43) Why were children stopped from rolling eggs in a park in Washington, D.C.?

- 1 Some people did not want them to damage the grass.
- 2 The police thought that the game was dangerous.
- 3 There were not enough eggs available at that time.
- 4 The president said the park was too small for them to use.

(44) What is one way in which the White House Easter Egg Roll has changed?

- 1 Tickets are now much cheaper than before.
- 2 Children can now watch it live on the Internet.
- 3 More people come now than in 1941.
- 4 Some famous singers now perform at it.

(45) Why are some people unhappy about the White House Easter Egg Roll?

- 1 They do not like the entertainers who perform there.
- 2 They do not want children to meet the president.
- 3 They say companies use it only for advertising.
- 4 They say it costs too much money.
