A New Start

After graduating from university, Jeff decided to live with his parents because it was cheaper than living alone. Recently, he got a job at an office in Silvertown. It took him two hours to get there by car from his parents' house. Driving for many hours every day made him (34). But even though he had less energy, he was saving a lot of money.

Last Friday, Jeff's co-worker Mark invited Jeff to a party at his apartment in central Silvertown. Jeff met many people at the party and talked to Mark a lot. Mark told him that his apartment was not so expensive and that he was looking for a new roommate. Mark asked Jeff to move in and share the costs of the apartment. Jeff (35). Living with Lions

In Kenya, the number of lions has gone from 10,000 to 2,000 in only the last 10 years. One reason for this is that farmers are killing the lions. They do this to protect their cows, sheep, and other farm animals. The Kenyan government wants to help both the farmers and the lions. However, most of the ideas for solving this problem are (36). Since Kenya is not a rich country, it cannot use such solutions. However, Richard Turere, a Kenyan boy, had an idea that was both useful and cheap.

Richard began to take care of his family's cows when he was just 9 years old. It was his job to watch them. However, every month, lions would eat some of them, especially at night when no one was around. When Richard was 11 years old, he thought of an idea. He knew that the lions would not (37) if they thought someone was nearby. Richard put small light bulbs on the fence around his family's land to stop the lions from killing the cows. He got the light bulbs from broken flashlights, and he used a solar-powered battery for electricity.

The system has been very successful, and the lions have stopped killing Richard's animals. Also, it does not cost very much—only about $10. The idea is now (38). People all over Kenya have heard about it, and many have asked Richard to help them, too. The Brookhouse International School in Nairobi has even decided to let him go there for free. Now, Richard has the chance to become an engineer.

From: Christine Jackson <jackson-c@spotmail.com>
 To: Brad Wilson <brad.wilson@mymail.com>
 Date: June 7, 2015
 Subject: Good news

Dear Brad,

Hey, big brother! How are you? It has already been six months since we last saw each other during the Christmas holidays. Do you remember that I told you I was looking for a new house? Well, I have some good news! Andy and I just bought one near Jake's school. We liked our old house, but we wanted a bigger yard for Jake to play in.

It's getting really hot here in Florida. The temperature today is 27°C! The weather must be nice in New York. Andy and I have been thinking about visiting you there in the fall. I'm sure Jake would really like to see you, and he hasn't forgotten that you promised to teach him how to play tennis.

We're having a birthday party at our house tonight for Jake. Some of his friends from school are coming, so I prepared some snacks and baked a big cake. I hope everyone has fun! By the way, Jake is interested in writing to a pen pal. Since you're a teacher, do you know anyone Jake's age who might want to write to him?

Take care,
 Christine

 - 3 It is not a good place to visit in the fall.
 - 4 Andy does not like living there.

The Price of Success

One problem for schools is that many students do not want to study hard. As a result, they perform poorly in their classes. This is especially true in the United States, where average scores for math and science are lower than in many other countries. In recent years, schools and charities have been looking for ways to help students get better grades in these subjects. In 2008, an organization called the LMD Foundation introduced a program called Learn and Earn.

In the program, money was used to get a group of students to study harder in math and science. In addition to the normal school day, they went to after-school classes for four hours each week. The students were paid eight dollars for each hour of after-school class. By the end of the year, the students in the program had higher grades than a similar group of students who had not taken part.

Not everyone thinks that this is a good idea, though. TV reporter John Tulenko studied data from a similar program. He found that students' grades went back down when they stopped getting paid. Many people are worried about this. They think that the students study because they want money, not because they enjoy learning. Also, some people believe that these types of programs are a bad idea because it is a large part of a teacher's job to get students to study. If students are given money, some teachers might stop trying to do this.

However, others believe that these learning programs can be helpful for students from poor families. Many of these students do part-time jobs after school, and some even quit school at a young age to work. Some do this to help get money for their families. Others feel that they can learn more by working than by going to school. Programs like Learn and Earn let these students stay in school and still make money.

(42)

What is true about many students in the United States?

- 1 They are not allowed to receive help from organizations.
- 2 They study more than students in other countries.
- 3 They are doing poorly in math and science.
- 4 They do not help their classmates get better grades.

(43)

Students in the Learn and Earn program

- 1 were asked to help other students with poor grades.
- 2 were given money if their grades went up.
- 3 were made to go to school during summer vacation.
- 4 were paid to go to extra classes after school.

(44)

Why do some people think that programs like Learn and Earn are a bad idea?

- 1 Students' grades only improve a little during the program.
- 2 Students stop studying when they are in the program.
- 3 Teachers might stop trying to do a big part of their job.
- 4 Teachers have started giving low grades to save money.

(45)

It is thought that programs like Learn and Earn can have a good effect because

- 1 they allow poor students to stay in school.
- 2 they help students find jobs after graduation.
- 3 families in them can spend more time together.
- 4 students in them can go to work instead of school.
