4	Hi Katherine, Thank you for your questions. I think children rarely go out because they enjoy playing computer games or watching TV. Parents should encourage their children to go outside and play sports such as soccer and baseball more. I think that six hours of sleep is not enough for a young person. Students usually have homework or after-school activities to do, so they are not able to get as much rest as they should. Finally, it's great your son is learning to cook. Learning to cook helps people become independent. It also means they will take more interest in eating healthy food rather than fast food or prepared food from convenience stores. I hope my answers help. Miki
